Sherri R Duncan : Jewels of Passion: Costume Jewelry Masterpieces before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Jewels of Passion: Costume Jewelry Masterpieces:

"Aren't I privileged?" said the author/jewelry collector By Nichole Carter This book would be great for any young designer looking to draw design board inspiration from some of the great vintage jewelers. I was lucky enough to purchase the book used for a meager $1.98 and felt no shame in cutting into it to steal the only valuable contents found within it; the photos. Don't get me wrong, the author truly is one lucky lady; her collection is fabulous! However writing a book solely to show off what nice pieces you own and where you're lucky enough to wear them (the Kentucky Derby, The Tavern on the Green restaurant in NYC THE Waldorf Astoria prior to heading to the Westminster Dog Show) is nothing short of self-interested and by no means a strong foundation for a high quality reference guide. 8 of 9 people found the following review helpful. Nice photographs... but..... By Christopher Carpentino I thoroughly enjoyed the photography of pieces in this book, although there are many pieces that I have seen numerous times. I was a bit taken back by a few things. There are a lot of punctuation errors in the edition that I have, some companies are listed with founders, some are not, that is very inconsistent. I was also VERY taken back with the misspelling of a designer's name. David Mandel is the designer and owner of "The Show Must Go On", not David Mendell. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Beautiful Gems But...By CustomerA gorgeous book of gem jewelry but it reads more as if it is a scrapbook of a rich person who can afford most of these pieces

This stunning new book showcases fantastic costume jewelry from 53 top designers of the 20th century. Examples from Christian Dior, Miriam Haskell, Kenneth Jay Lane, Elsa Schiaparelli, Stanley Hagler, Trifari, Vendome, and many others are shown in profusion. 360 luscious color photographs display exquisite examples of each designer's best work. Masterpieces abound, including many rare examples. The authors illustrate ways to enjoy these pieces today, with candid photography of friends adorned for casual occasions. Delightful stories are shared of memories associated with their passion for jewelry over the years. This remarkable exhibition displays costume jewelry as absolutely beautiful works of art. Sit back with this eye candy, relax with the fairytale spirit it projects, and enjoy the romance. Let the passion roll!

About the Author Veterinarian and collector Sherri Duncan wears her fabulous jewelry to work every day to amuse herself, her clients, and their owners. Her good friend is Deby Roberts, a jewelry dealer whose understanding of the designs became the glue of their friendship. Sherri refers to Deby as "my dealer!" How much fun is that? They both live in South Carolina.
